Cover: Slashed by $75 million budget cuts, the Canadian Broadcasting Corp. faces the gravest crisis in its 50-year history. A Cinema Canada special report—featuring an exclusive interview with CBC president Pierre Juneau—examines the crisis at CBC, beginning p. 6.

CONTENTS

Pierre Juneau: The crisis at CBC

From the head-office of the world's largest public broadcasting system, the Canadian Broadcasting Corp.'s president reflects on the current crisis. A Cinema Canada interview by Peter Black. 6

New technology and the future of the CBC

There is a way out of the crisis, argues industry analyst Patrick Crawley—and it places the CBC squarely at the centre of the world wide information revolution. 10

Special report: Technology and culture – Part 2

In the concluding part of Cinema Canada's special report on technology and culture, Gordon

Thompson probes the nature of the technological paradigm shift, Peter Black tracks the zig-zag evolution of Canadian communications policy, Doug McKenzie reviews recent developments in digital sound production, and Sam Zero challenges the current misunderstanding of media. 14-19
