

• Actor Ben Cross (The Assisi Underground)

photo: Linda Dawn Hammond

• Actress Jane Fonda, WFF director Serge Losique, and unknown escort

photo: Linda Dawn Hammond

• Director Istvan Szabo (Colonel Redl)

photo: Lois Siegel

• Actress Jennifer Cluff, director Bill Bennett (A Street to Die), and koala bear

photo: Linda Dawn Hammond

The 9th Montreal World Film Festival

A photo-reportage

• Director Norman Jewison (Agnes of God)

photo: Linda Dawn Hammond

• Actress Jane Fonda (Agnes of God)

• Actor Armin Mueller-Stahl (Angry Harvest)

photo: Lois Siegel

• An exuberant filmgoer gets the heave-ho

photo: Linda Dawn Hammond

• Former prime minister Pierre Trudeau and actress Meg Tilly (Agnes of God)

photo: Linda Dawn Hammond

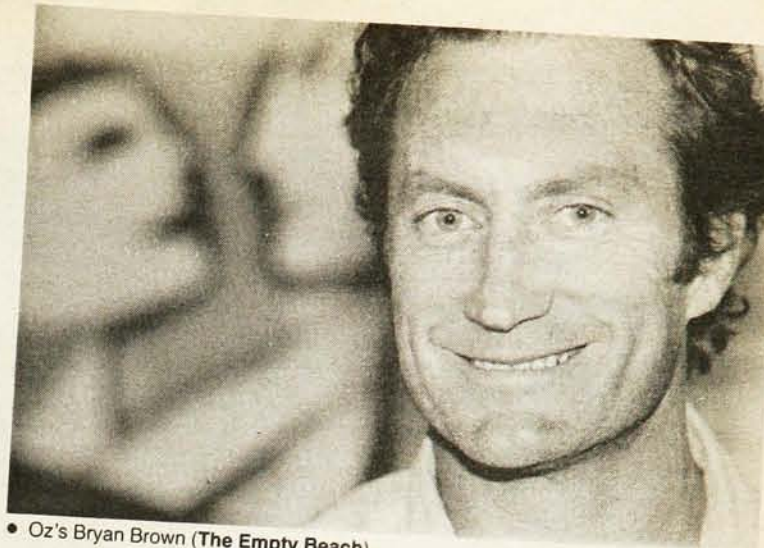

photo: Linda Dawn Hammond

• Oz's Bryan Brown (The Empty Beach)

photo: Linda Dawn Hammond

• Candid Carole Laure (Night Magic)

• New Cinema Festival director Claude Chamberlan and NFB president François Macerola

photo: Lois Siegel

Stars of the silver screen

For 12 days as of Aug. 21, Montreal took on all the appearances of one of the centres of World cinema. What with ever-growing numbers of filmgoers clutching their white programme schedules, the Bleury and Ste-Catherine Street area seemed a gathering-point for a new breed of tourists, searching their way through cinematic maps of celluloid from the four corners of the globe.

One of the strong features of the World Film Festival's internationalism has always been its ability to attract some of the great names of world-filmmaking and this year was no exception: Kobayashi, Istvan Szabo, Norman Jewison, Jane Fonda, to mention but a few. And the home-front too, was graced with the presences of Lewis Furey and Carole Laure, Jean Beaudin, and Claude Gagnon.

Here Cinema Canada's roving photographers – Lois Siegel and Linda Dawn Hammond – capture some of the febrile spirit of the 9th WFF.

photo: Lois Siegel

• Actress Charlotte Rampling (On ne meurt que deux fois)

photo: Lois Siegel

• Director Masaki Kobayashi (The Tokyo Trial) and Mrs. Kawakita, president of the Japanese Film Library Council